Annex 1

Call for applications for the award of 1 grant for the performance of research activities at the University of Udine on the topic "Potential of active packaging obtained by supercritical techniques for food shelf life extension" SSD: AGRI-07/A (principal investigator, Lara Manzocco).

Art. 1

A selection proceeding is hereby announced for the award of 1 research grant at the University of Udine for the performance of the research activity identified in Annex A, which forms an integral and substantial part of this call. The research grant is linked to the research project on which it is based and is subject to the corresponding financial coverage.

The grant may be renewed with the winner in accordance with the provisions of Article 22 of Law no. 240 of 30 December 2010 (in the text prior to Leg. Decree no. 36 of 30 April 2022, converted with amendments by Law no. 79 of 29 June 2022) and the Regulations of the University of Udine for the awarding of research grants issued by Rector's Decree no. 182 of 31 March 2021, in the presence of a positive assessment by the scientific supervisor of the activity carried out by the research fellow, adequate scientific justification and related financial coverage, within the limits set out in Article 3, letters b) and c) below.

The research grant does not entitle the successful candidate to any rights as regards access to University roles.

Any personal communication to candidates relating to this selection will be sent exclusively to the email address indicated in the application form.

Art. 2

The activities covered by the research grant referred to in this call for competition and the admission requirements are indicated and described in Annex A. Failure to meet the admission requirements at the time of applying shall result in the exclusion of the candidate from the selection process.

Possession of a PhD qualification or equivalent qualification obtained abroad or, for the sectors concerned only, of a medical specialisation qualification accompanied by an adequate scientific production, constitutes a preferential requirement for the awarding of the grant envisaged for this selection, if it has not been mentioned as an admission requirement.

The Selection Board shall assess, for the sole purpose of admission to the competition, the suitability of any qualification obtained abroad, without prejudice to the assessment of the medical specialisation qualification to which Article 38, paragraph 3.1 of Legislative Decree 165/2001, as amended, and the relevant Community regulations apply.

The Board assesses the qualification obtained abroad based on the relevant documentation enclosed with the application to take part in the selection and may exclude the candidate if the submitted documentation does not provide sufficient elements for the assessment.

Candidates are therefore invited to enclose all documentation in their possession relating to their qualifications in order to provide the Board with sufficient elements to assess their position.

Candidates are admitted to the selection process subject to a reservation and their exclusion, for failure to meet the requirements, may be ordered at any time by reasoned decision.

Art. 7

The Competition Selection Board is identified in Annex A to this call, of which it forms an integral part. At its first meeting, the Board appoints the Chairperson and the Secretary taking the minutes, and establishes the criteria and procedures for assessing the qualifications and the interview, where applicable.

The results of the assessment must be made known to the parties concerned at the interview, where provided for.

The Board can attribute to the selection a total number of 100 points (one hundred hundredths). At the end of its work, the Board formulates the overall merit list based on the total marks obtained by each candidate and draws up the minutes of the competition operations.

The grant may be awarded, subject to the ranking list, to candidates who have obtained a minimum overall mark of 70/100 (seventy hundredths).

Testo in italiano:

Il presente assegno contribuirà alle attività del progetto PRIMA (bando 2022) "Technological and economic potential of the active packaging obtained by supercritical techniques for the preservation of Mediterranean fresh food" (Im-Pack). Nel progetto Im-Pack viene proposta l'applicazione dell'impregnazione con fluidi supercritici per generare imballaggi attivi. Questa tecnologia è già stata utilizzata per incorporare molecole attive in packaging polimerici costituiti da materiali plastici convenzionali, con un aumento di diversi giorni della shelf life degli alimenti. Tuttavia, l'efficacia di questo approccio non è stata ancora pienamente valutata in relazione all'impregnazione di materiali bioplastici e biodegradabili. Il progetto Im-Pack mira quindi a impregnare materiali di imballaggio biopolimerici con molecole attive per generare imballaggi biodegradabili attivi. In particolare, le biomolecole verranno estratte da sottoprodotti agroalimentari, in linea con il concetto di economia circolare. Il progetto Im-Pack affronta la sostenibilità della filiera alimentare da diversi punti di vista. In primo luogo, mira al riciclo dei principi attivi estratti da sottoprodotti agricoli. In secondo luogo, le molecole estratte verranno utilizzate nello sviluppo di packaging attivi basati su materiali biodegradabili (bioplastiche), utilizzando tecniche di impregnazione sostenibili basate su anidride carbonica supercritica. Infine, i materiali sviluppati serviranno per la produzione di imballaggi attivi, in grado di aumentare la durata di conservazione degli alimenti, contribuendo infine alla riduzione dello spreco alimentare.

Nell'ambito del progetto Im-Pack, le attività oggetto di questo assegno di ricerca si concentreranno sullo studio dell'effetto della tecnologia di impregnazione sulle proprietà dei materiali di imballaggio alimentare e sulla loro capacità di prolungare la durata di conservazione degli alimenti freschi.

A questo scopo, verranno prese in considerazione packaging biopolimerici (es. PLA) impregnati con molecole bioattive (ad esempio polifenoli) in diverse condizioni di impregnazione. I packaging in materiali plastici biopolimerici non impregnati con molecole bioattive saranno considerati come controlli. I materiali di imballaggio verranno testati per proprietà fisiche, quali permeabilità all'ossigeno e al vapore acqueo, migrazione, temperatura di transizione, saldabilità e resistenza meccanica. Inoltre, la potenziale bioattività dei film sarà determinata in termini di attività antiossidante e antimicrobica delle matrici impregnate utilizzando saggi spettrofotometrici.

I packaging più promettenti verranno quindi selezionati e utilizzati come materiali di imballaggio per prodotti freschi di origine vegetale o animale, studiandone la capacità di estenderne la shelf life. A questo scopo verranno condotti test di shelf life. In particolare, gli alimenti selezionati verranno confezionati nei packaging sviluppati e conservati in condizioni refrigerate. Durante la conservazione, i campioni verranno analizzati per quanto riguarda indicatori igienici, oltre che chimici e fisici. Potranno inoltre essere condotte analisi sensoriali per valutare lo sviluppo di sapori indesiderati nell'alimento, l'eventuale perdita delle tipiche caratteristiche sensoriali dell'alimento e il cambiamento nell'accettabilità complessiva espressa dal consumatore.

Text in English:

The present project will contribute to the activities of the project PRIMA (call 2022) "Technological and economic potential of the active packaging obtained by supercritical techniques for the preservation of Mediterranean fresh food" (Im-Pack). In the Im-Pack project, the application of supercritical fluids impregnation to generate active packaging is proposed. This technique has been already used to incorporate active molecules in polymeric packages, and it has shown excellent results in conventional plastics, increasing the shelf life of the food by several days. Nevertheless, its application in biodegradable packages has not yet been exploited extensively. The Im-Pack project aims thus to impregnate biopolymeric packaging materials with active molecules to generate active biodegradable packaging. In particular, the biomolecules will be extracted from agro-food by-products, in line with the concept of circular economy. The Im-Pack project addresses the sustainability of food supply chain from different points of view. Firstly, the project aims at the upcycling of active ingredients extracted from agricultural by-products. Secondly, the extracted molecules will be used in the development of active packages based on biodegradable materials (bioplastics). Moreover, these active materials will be prepared by using sustainable impregnation techniques based on supercritical-carbon dioxide. Finally, the developed materials will serve for the production of active packaging, able to increase the shelf life of food, eventually contributing to the reduction of waste generated from expired food.

Within the frame of the Im-Pack project, the activities of this fellowship will focus on the effect of the proposed impregnation technology on the properties of food packaging materials and on their ability to extend the shelf life of fresh foods.

To this aim, biopolymeric plastics (e.g., PLA) impregnated with bioactive molecules (e.g., polyphenols) under different impregnation conditions will be considered. Biopolymer packaging materials not impregnated with bioactive molecules will be considered as controls. The packaging materials will be tested for physical properties such as oxygen and water vapour permeability, migration, transition temperatures, sealability, and mechanical resistance. Moreover, the potential bioactivity of the films will be determined in terms of antioxidant and antimicrobial activity of impregnated matrices using spectrophotometric assays.

The most promising materials will be then selected and used as packaging materials for fresh vegetable or animal products and their ability in shelf life extension studied. To this aim, shelf life tests will be conducted. The selected foods will be packed using the developed materials and stored under refrigerated conditions. During storage, food samples will be analysed for hygienic indicators, as well as for chemical and physical ones. Sensory analysis could be also performed to assess the transfer of unusual flavours to food, the loss of typical food flavour, and the change in overall consumer acceptability.
